

So long

Text/Musik: Bodo Schaffrath

I wake up in the morning but I just don't want to get up,
Too tired to get on this train of life, too tired to socialize
I know it seems so strange because I just want to hide hide behind pillars and trees and leave the world behind.

And it took so long, and it was so wrong,
that I saw through your eyes into vanilla skies.
And it took so long, and it was so wrong,
that I saw through your eyes into vanilla skies.
Now look into my eyes and see: see me!

You talk about the weather, about sun and rain,
about your car, your dog, your house, your job, over and over again.
And I know it seems so strange cause I just walk away, away from this social trap, towards the things that are important to me.

And it took so long, and it was so wrong,
that I saw through your eyes into vanilla skies.
And it took so long, and it was so wrong,
that I saw through your eyes into vanilla skies.
Now look into my eyes and see: see me!

I'm good in spotting patterns, faults and fancy things.
But if you know me, you know I am very bad at reading from your face.
And I know it seems so strange but it's hard for me to lie,
so please tell me all the truth, tell me what you mean.
