

Just a love song

words/music by Bodo Schaffrath

Snow is falling on the ground of yesterday,
Birds are singing tunes I've never heard before.
A rose is blooming in this winterland,
Bells I've never known usher in the new way of life.

The wisper of the wind tells a fairytale,
About a wonder of life that becomes reality.
Traces in the snow ending suddenly,
Something fills the air, something very strange.

It's just a love song for you.
It's just a love song for you.

The rainbow of life reaches into the sky
Continues all colours of life.
The morning comes, when the night has gone,
Silently, so you can't hear.

It's just a love song for you.
It's just a love song for you.

Life becomes reality,
I've drunk form the fountain of life.
I've seen the wonder, I feel the wonder: it's you.

It's just a love song for you.
It's just a love song for you.
